Writing and editing services for UNAIDS web site

The Joint United Nations Programme on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) brings the efforts and resources of ten UN system organizations together in the AIDS response.

The UNAIDS communications team invites proposals for web writing and editing services in the period 2010-2011.

UNAIDS global web site disseminates information on a wide range of topics including news from international HIV conferences and fora, analysis of aspects of the epidemic and country responses and also reviews of publications and policies. Web stories also feature news from UNAIDS 10 UN cosponsors as well as government and civil society partners. Our audiences include community members, policymakers, government, civil society, researchers, media, advocates, practitioners and researchers. An archive of UNAIDS feature stories can be found here: <http://www.unaids.org/en/KnowledgeCentre/Resources/FeatureStories/archive/>

If you would like to work as a web writer with UNAIDS on a freelance basis and:

- You hold a recognized qualification in a health-related field, communications, journalism, international relations or other related field.
- You have experience of technical web writing and editing and independent research
- You are comfortable working to deadline and you have ability to present complex technical information to different target audiences in a clear, concise manner.

Proposals should include

- Daily rate for writing and editing services
- CV
- Examples of web writing
- Client list

Proposals should be submitted by email to webcontent@unaids.org

Deadline for submission: 31 October 2009, 17:00 (Geneva time)
